The rules seem to be in order.

Law

Certain rules are proposed to be made in regard to the delegation of powers to standing Committees of the District Boards, in exercise of the powers vested in Government under Section 100 of the District Board Regulation 1926. Rule 1 of the draft rules, seeks to enable District Boards to delegate all or any of its powers to the Standing Committee and rule 2 seeks to restrict such power of delegation in certain cases.

Both the rules assume that the powers that a standing Committee can exerciseare only powers that are delegated to it by the District Board. This seems to be inconsistent with Section 31 (2) of the District Board Regulation, under which the Standing Committee is vested with all the powers and is bound to perform all the duties of the District Board, except those powers and duties which have been delegated to other committees - Section 31 of our District Board Regulation -- corresponds to section 36 of the Bombay Local Boards Act, 1923 and the following observations of Mr. Cumming in his Additional Notes to his Local Board Manual, (Page 33) in this connection

Serial No.

make the point clear:-

"It should be clearly understood" says the learned author, remarking that unhappily the misunderstanding is prevalent in very many of the Government Offices, "that the Standing Committee's powers and duties are not delegated to it but are vested in it by the section. All other committee (except those appointed under sections 32 and 33 of our Regulation) when appointed, have to be invested with powers and duties by delegation, and when any such Committee is appointed, the Standing Committee atonce ceases to exercise those powers and to perform those duties. Hence it follows that a local Board cannot delegate any of its -- powers, etc. to the Standing Committee; the delegation, if desired, must be to some other Committee.

Rule 1, therefore, enabling the District Board to delegate all or any of its powers, at its discretion to the Standing Committee would be ultra vires. If the rule is to be modified so as to state merely what is contained in Section 31 Cl. (2), it may be all right but will then be unnecessary. This rule may therefore be omitted entirely.

In consequence of what is stated above, the reference to delegation in the preamble as well as in rule 2 may also be omitted. In place of the words "delegation of powers to " in the preamble, the words "exercise of the functions of" may be substituted. Similarly in rule 2, instead of the words "delegated to", it is better to have the word

NOTE—Contn. Sheet.

WD 02553—GPB—50,000—8 7 30

"exercised or performed by". The necessary corrections are shown in brackets in the draft.

Rule 3 modified as suggested above prevents the Standing Committee from exercising the powers and performing the duties mentioned in certain sections indicated therein except with the previous sanction of Government. With respect to a similar rule, (Rule 1) under the Bombay Local Boards Act, Mr. Cuming contends that it is ultravires on the ground that the limitations contemplated in sec. 36 (2) of the said Act, corresponding to Section 31 (2) of the Mysore District Board Regulation, are in respect to the exercise of the powers and not to the powers themselves. He says "the rules cannot limit the powers, etc, of the Committee, much less prohibit their exercise, as the Section clearly lays down that it "shall exercise all the powers and perform all the duties not delegated to any other Committee." The rules or orders can only place limits within which the powers are to be exercised and the duties performed." This argument receives much support from the language of section 133 (c) of the Bombay Act, the Section referred to in Section 36 (2) of the Act, as enabling Government to make rules placing limitations etc. Now, Section 133 (c) of the Bombay Act enables the prescribing of "such general conditions as shall seem fit as to the manner in which the business of local boards shall be conducted." To "prescribe general conditions" is not to place limitations, much less is there the ~~any~~ remotest allusion to restrictions regarding the delegation of powers etc., It is therefore possible to doubt the validity of the Bombay Rule in as much as it is beyond the rule making powers vested under sec. 133 (c) which does not enable limitations being placed on the powers to be exercised or the duties to be performed by the Starding Committees.

Section 100 of the Mysore District Board Regulation, corresponding to Section 133 of the Bombay Act does not create any similar difficulty. Sub Section (1) of Section 100 enables Government to make any rule or order to carry out all or any of the purposes of the Regulation not inconsistent therewith. Clause (e) of Sub Section (2) specifically refers to rules being made as to delegation of powers to committees. Now Section 31 (2) says that the Standing Committee shall -- exercise all the powers and perform all the duties of the Board which have not been delegated to any other Committee, subject, however, to any limitations or other provisions contained in rules made under Section 100. There appears to be nothing in Section 31 which warrants the inference that the limitations or other provisions referred to are with respect only to the exercise of the functions and not to the functions themselves. The words 'subject to" are words of qualification and restricts the otherwise general vesting of all powers mentioned therein. The Section itself therefore contemplates restrictions being placed on the powers and duties of the Standing Committee and rules can therefore be framed under Section 100 to carry out this purpose.

239
Law

Rule 2 of the proposed rules, with the corrections suggested above is therefore intravires and may be retained if desired.

Some small corrections are necessary in rules 3,4,5 and 6 of the rules and they are indicated in the draft.

The draft G.O. I think, requires revision in the light of the remarks made above as to the powers and duties of the standing Committees under Section 31.

In para 2 ~~and 3~~ and 4 of Government Order No.9168-90/L.B.89-30-27 dated 16th May 1931 Government observed that the Standing Committees of District Boards appeared to dispose of business specially referred to them by the District Boards in some Districts, that they were not serving the purpose for which they ought to be appointed and that in order to remove the congestion of work at the meetings of District Boards, Standing Committees should ~~be given independent powers to~~ dispose of some matters now coming up before the District Boards subject to certain limitations and conditions.
